Two Names from EMU Faculty of Tourism Made it to the Final Auditions of MasterChef

Eastern Mediterranean University (EMU) Faculty of Tourism Department of Gastronomy and Culinary Arts graduate and instructor Tanya Kilitkayalı and Culinary Arts 2014 graduate Mehmet Celal Sarıgül is representing Turkish Republic of Northern Cyprus (TRNC) and EMU at the MasterChef competition which is organized in different contexts in many countries. The program is broadcasted for the first-time in Turkey on TV-8 channel. Being successful at the preselection process of the competition, instructor Kilitkayalı's idiosyncratic interpretation of "Pirohu", a traditional Cypriot dish won great recognition by the jury members. At the second round, Kilitkayalı's cold soup "Gazpacho" took her to the finals. EMU graduate Mehmet Celal Sarıgül also impressed the jury members by one beautiful than other meals and became one of the names to go to the final auditions of the competition qualifying to compete in the upcoming rounds of the MasterChef competition.

In his statement regarding the competition, EMU Faculty of Tourism Dean Prof. Dr. Hasan Kılıç mentioned that Kilitkayalı continued her studies and completed her master's in EMU following her graduation from EMU Department of Gastronomy and Culinary Arts undergraduate program. Tanya Kilitkayalı works as an instructor in the department and she has shown great success. Prof. Dr. Kılıç also described EMU graduate Mehmet Celal Sarıgül as a successful student and stated that he will be successful in the competition by the quality education he received at EMU alongside with Instructor Kilitkayalı.

Underlining that EMU is ranked amongst the best every year by international ranking organizations as a result of scientific publications and research, Prof. Dr. Hocanın stated that the goal is always to go further. Stating that the rankings usually highlight objective criteria, Prof

EMU Holds Ceremony for Publication Achievement, Research Incentive and PhD Supervisor Awards

Dr. Hocanın emphasized that these include citations, joint publications, studies that may lead to scientific patents and studies that can be offered to industrial services

Prof. Dr. Hocanın went on to say “Appearing in the rankings is a by-product of our work. Research is conducted to contribute to science. In the future, we will continue to give incentives for scientific publication, and we will benefit from national and international projects by producing various solutions for the implementation of projects. It is possible to apply for two different types of projects in the international protocol with TÜBİTAK

"We are taking the relevant steps to increase this At the end of his speech, Prof. Dr. Hocanın thanked all faculty members who received awards in 2019 and the supervisors who guided their students with their accumulation.
